

There are two things known to be certain in our world.

The first thing, of course, are those who are born with the boils.

Their crimson sacs gift them with immesurable powers, making them destined to seek out and destroy the creatures that plague our realm.

The second thing, naturally, are monsters like Rot the Otter King.

With his Lutrenian Army, he torments and terrorizes our world from his marble manor.

Of all things, those two are certain. Can those with the boils ever hope to slay the Otter King?
